THE UNITED KINGDOM GREAT BRITAIN (G.B.) AND NORTHERN IRELAND (N.I.)

COUNTIES AND SHIRES

e suffix -shire may be omitted from the names of certain counties, for ample Devon and Sussex. It is not omitted if the name of the town or city ich is the administrative centre (the 'county town') is identical with the me of the county. Warwick is the county town of Warwickshire. Either von or Devonshire may be used, because the county town is Exeter.

For -shire two pronunciations, either [-ʃə*] or [-ʃiə*] are, with a few excepns (e.g. Cheshire) possible.

The usual abbreviations of the names of the counties are given in parenesis. Most of them are obvious, but there are a few derived from a latinized me (e.g. Oxon.), or from a corrupted form (e.g. Salop), from old Angloench. Pronunciations are given only for those abbreviations that are used spoken English.
